RESOURCE

Lucknow University B.A.LLB. 5 year Through CLAT 2027

31 August 2026 · 6 min read · 1,142 words · 28 views

CLAT 2027: Why It Is Now Important for Students Seeking Admission to Lucknow University's 5-Year Integrated Law Program

For students in Lucknow and across Uttar Pradesh who are planning to pursue a 5-year integrated law degree, the admission landscape has changed significantly. The University of Lucknow has introduced CLAT scores as an important route for admission to its LL.B. (Integrated Five Years) programme. For the 2026–27 admission cycle, the University's official brochure states that admission to the programme would be based on CLAT 2026 scores, with the University Entrance Test (UGET) being used for seats that remain vacant.

This development makes CLAT preparation relevant not only for students targeting National Law Universities (NLUs), but also for students whose primary goal is to study law at Lucknow University.

What Has Changed for Lucknow University Law Admissions?

According to the University of Lucknow's 2026–27 admission brochure, the LL.B. (Integrated Five Years) programme has 330 seats, apart from 30 NRI/NRI-sponsored seats.

For the CLAT-based route, the University specified

General category: minimum 60 marks out of 120 in CLAT 2026.

OBC/SC/ST/PwBD categories: minimum 54 marks out of 120.

Eligible candidates could seek admission based on their CLAT merit and were not required to appear for the University Entrance Examination.

Remaining vacant seats could subsequently be filled through the University's UGET.

The University has also published separate admission and seat-allotment notices relating to CLAT-based admission for the integrated five-year law programme.

This means CLAT is no longer relevant only to students dreaming of an NLU. It can also become an important admission pathway for students specifically targeting Lucknow University.

Important: The exact eligibility criteria, CLAT score requirement and admission procedure for 2027–28 will depend on the official University notification for that admission cycle. Students should therefore treat the 2026 criteria as the current precedent, not as a guaranteed 2027 cutoff.

Why Should Lucknow University Aspirants Take CLAT 2027 Seriously?

Traditionally, a student wanting to study law at Lucknow University could focus primarily on the University's own admission process.

The introduction of CLAT-based admission changes that strategy.

A student preparing for CLAT 2027 can now potentially keep multiple options open.

A good CLAT score can help a student:

Target NLUs + Keep Lucknow University as an option + Avoid depending entirely on a university-specific entrance examination.

This is particularly valuable for students who want to study law in Lucknow while also keeping other law colleges open as alternatives.

Instead of preparing separately for multiple entrance examinations from day one, students can build a strong foundation through CLAT preparation and then adapt their strategy according to the admission notifications released by different universities.

CLAT 2027 Preparation Is Not Only About Getting into an NLU ,,,,,

One common misconception among students is:

If I don't want an NLU, why should I prepare for CLAT?"

The answer is simple: CLAT is becoming relevant to a wider range of law-school admission decisions.

For a student targeting Lucknow University, CLAT preparation develops exactly the skills needed for a competitive law entrance examination:

Reading comprehension

English language skills

Logical reasoning

Legal reasoning

Current affairs and general knowledge

Quantitative aptitude

Time management

Accuracy under pressure

Therefore, even if Lucknow University is your primary target, preparing seriously for CLAT 2027 can give you a broader admission strategy.

How Should a Lucknow University Aspirant Prepare for CLAT 2027?

The preparation strategy should be simple but consistent.

1. Build Reading Habits

CLAT is heavily dependent on comprehension.

Students should read a quality newspaper every day and develop the habit of understanding

Arguments

Opinions

Facts

Inferences

Author's tone

Central ideas

This will help not only in English but also in Legal and Logical Reasoning.

2. Prepare Current Affairs Throughout the Year

Do not wait until the final months.

Follow one reliable newspaper and one structured monthly current affairs source.
Make short notes and revise them regularly.

Focus particularly on:

Indian polity
Supreme Court judgments
Constitutional developments
Government schemes
International affairs
Economy
Environment
Science and technology

3. Strengthen Logical and Legal Reasoning

CLAT requires students to apply information rather than simply memorise it.
Practise passage-based questions regularly and analyse every mistake.

4. Don't Ignore Quantitative Techniques

Even students primarily targeting Lucknow University should prepare the complete CLAT syllabus because the 2027 admission requirements may differ from the current cycle.

5. Take Mock Tests

Mocks should become a regular part of preparation.
But taking a mock is only half the job.

Mock Analysis Identify mistakes Correct them Reattempt
This cycle is what actually improves performance.

CLAT IQ Launches a Special Programme for Lucknow University Aspirants

With this changing admission landscape, CLAT IQ is introducing a dedicated preparation programme for students who are specifically interested in pursuing the 5-year integrated law programme at Lucknow University.

The objective of this programme is simple:

Prepare for CLAT 2027 while keeping Lucknow University as a focused admission target.

The programme will help students build their preparation from the fundamentals and gradually move towards CLAT-level practice.

Students will receive focused preparation in

English Language
Current Affairs & General Knowledge

Legal Reasoning
Logical Reasoning
Quantitative Techniques
Reading Comprehension
Vocabulary
Mock Tests
Previous-Year Questions
Regular Revision
Performance Analysis
The programme will also keep students informed about important admission-related developments so that they understand how their CLAT score can be used as part of their law-school admission strategy.

Who Should Join This Programme?

This programme is particularly suitable for:

Class 11 students who are beginning their law entrance preparation early.

Class 12 students planning to appear for CLAT 2027.

Students who specifically want to study law at Lucknow University but also want to keep other law colleges open.

Students who are unsure about their final law-school choice and want to prepare for a wider range of opportunities.

You don't necessarily have to decide today whether you want an NLU or Lucknow University.

A strong CLAT preparation gives you options.

Lucknow University + CLAT 2027: A New Opportunity for Law Aspirants

The most important takeaway for students is that CLAT preparation should no longer be viewed only through the lens of NLU admissions.

With the University of Lucknow using CLAT scores for admission to its five-year integrated law programme in the 2026–27 cycle, students targeting Lucknow University have another reason to take CLAT seriously.

For CLAT 2027 aspirants, the smartest approach is therefore to prepare for the examination comprehensively while keeping track of the official admission notifications of the universities they are targeting.

Your target may be Lucknow University.

Your preparation can be CLAT.

And your opportunities can be much bigger.

CLAT IQ's Special Lucknow University Law Entrance Programme is designed to help students take that first step towards a successful law-school journey with structured preparation, regular practice and a clear understanding of the CLAT pathway.

Start preparing for CLAT 2027 today. Your law-school options begin with the preparation you build now.